

FACTS CONCEALED BY DEPARTMENT

Urban A. Walter Brings Charges Against Postal Officials.

Washington, January 24.—Charges that the Postmaster-General and other postal officials suppress facts and misinform Congress as to the safety of the lives of clerks in the railway mail service were made before the House Committee on Post-Offices today by Urban A. Walter, of Denver, Col., formerly a railway mail clerk and editor of a postal journal.

Specific regulation of the post-office service, he said, forbids clerks to discuss wrecks. He charged that "the Postmaster-General has not stopped short of misinforming the committee and the public as to conditions under which clerks work."

Mr. Walter exhibited a letter file, in which he said he had 500 letters from mail clerks reporting on unsanitary and unsafe mail cars, and said that the positions of the authors would be jeopardized if the names were published.

"It is a remarkable situation that this gag law of the department should keep Congress from getting at the facts," said Chairman Moon.

"We can subpoena these men, but we cannot protect their jobs if they testify."

Mr. Walter produced statistics showing that from 1901 to 1909, inclusive, 117 railway mail clerks were killed, 116 seriously injured, and more than 4,000 slightly injured. For a given ten years in Great Britain, he said, clerks were killed and thirty-one injured.

The witness charged that the Post-Office Department had been most liberal in its interpretation of the recent law which required the railroad companies to furnish safe and sanitary cars. He said the cars furnished still were bad, and that clerks were compelled to report them in sanitary condition against their wishes.

Carl O. Van Dyke, of St. Paul, representing the tenth division of railway mail clerks, complained of unsanitary cars, undermanned crews and delayed mails.

Bill is introduced.

Washington, January 24.—The revised iron and steel tariff schedule approved by the Democratic caucus yesterday night was introduced today by Representative Underwood and referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

The committee will act on the bill tomorrow, and the House will vote on it today.

Chairman Underwood said the committee's recommendation that it pass and the debate probably will begin Friday.

Make Indorsements Public.

Washington, January 24.—Publication by the President of every written or verbal indorsement of candidates for all Federal judgeships from the Supreme Court down, prior to the appointment of the judges, would be required by a bill passed by the House today, after a lively struggle.

The stringent requirement, which was passed by Representative Cullip, of Indiana, as an amendment to the Evans bill, which would abolish the Federal Circuit judgeship at Chicago, read:

"Hereafter, before a President shall appoint any district, circuit or supreme judge, he shall make public all indorsements made in behalf of any applicant."

An attempt by Mr. Mann to attach an amendment increasing all district judges' salaries from $6,000 to $7,000 was defeated.

Chairman Clayton, of the House Judiciary Committee, in opposing this amendment, declared that Federal judges had been generously dealt with in his ing given the opportunity to retire on full salary at the age of seventy, if they had served for ten years.

"I believe judges should retire at that age," he said, "and I shall prepare and introduce a bill compelling all judges to retire at seventy, or forfeit their rights to the retirement pension provided by law."

Treaty is Approved.

Washington, January 24.—The subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations today agreed to recommend ratification of a general treaty negotiated by the United States with other nations for the protection of trade mark and other property rights of American citizens.

Vote on Children's Bureau.

Washington, January 24.—After two hours' general debate today the Senate agreed to vote next Tuesday on Senator Borah's bill to create a children's bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor, and an amendment to limit the circulation of the bureau's reports.

Senator Bailey renewed his attack on the bill on constitutional grounds and criticized what he said were Mr. Borah's efforts to put children on a level with pigs.

"The effort is to raise them to the level of pigs," responded Mr. Borah. Mr. Borah has contended that government expenditures of millions of dollars for information concerning the condition of hogs and cattle justified the $10,000 asked for the children's bureau.

Mr. Bailey said it was "mere faddism," and that there was even too much legislation in the interest of live stock, adding that at the present rate "two senators will be sending a schoolmaster into every district."

"According to Colonel Waterston, that is just what you are about to do," Mr. Borah rejoined.

Mr. Bailey replied that "this part of the party had no such intention."

Senator Overman, of North Carolina, criticized reports of child labor investigators. Some of those reports, he said, were obscure.

"They told of children chewing tobacco," he said.

"I can't see any strong opposition to that investigation from the cotton mill owners of the State," demanded Senator Dixon. Mr. Overman said he had not heard of it.

Senators Heyburn and Thornton also opposed the bill. Senator Hitchcock spoke in favor of it.

and Mrs. Raines are said to have passed around a petition, which was given the school board, asking for the removal of Miss Chambers. The school board met and investigated the matter. Miss Chambers was exonerated, and Mrs. Raines was told that she would have to formulate specific charges if she wished the matter taken further.

After the action of the school board Mrs. Raines is alleged to have circulated reports reflecting upon the character of Miss Chambers. Several days ago Miss Chambers, through her attorney, filed a suit in the Circuit Court of Roanoke county for slander, asking $5,000 damages. The suit was filed against Mrs. Raines, and papers were served within the past few days. This is thought to have brought the entire matter to a head, and prompted Mr. Raines to his murder. Neighbors are of the opinion that Raines shot Mr. Day because Mr. Day had taken Miss Chambers to board after she left his home.

To-night Sheriff Hatcher took Raines to Pulaski for safekeeping. This was a precautionary measure. While feeling is bitter against Raines, there has been no demonstration.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict this afternoon, saying Miss Chambers came to her death as the result of wounds inflicted by a pistol in the hands of Raines.

It is probable that a new ordinance on the subject will be drafted after the further hearing to be had this afternoon.

AGRICULTURAL TRAIN ON THE EASTERN SHORE

Practical Talks to Farmers of Accomack During First Day's Trip.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Cape Charles, Va., January 24.—Starting off on a four-day tour of the Eastern Shore of Virginia, the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad's agricultural train yesterday visited the farmers of Accomack county, stopping at Leno, Hoxom and Parkley, where practical farmers connected with the Department of Agriculture and Immigration of the State of Virginia, lectured to nearly 700 people.

The special, which is composed of two large passenger coaches for lecture purposes, and a retiring car for the speakers and railroad representatives, left Cape Charles early in the morning and reached Leno at 9:30 o'clock. The attendance at this point was estimated at about 200, and crowded the two cars, in each of which different speakers talked on different subjects.

Commissioner G. W. Kolner is in charge of the train. Commissioner Kolner introduced W. D. Zinn, of West Virginia, who discussed the subject of "Soil Improvement."

The concluding lecture at Leno was delivered by M. M. Luzzader, of Culpeper county, who is a successful poultry raiser.

About fifteen minutes was allotted after each lecture for an open discussion, and during this period the farmers fired question after question at the experts, who answered quickly and satisfactorily.

At Hoxom the attendance was such that the two lecture cars could not accommodate all, and it was found necessary to utilize the Town Hall for the meeting. The same subjects discussed at Leno were also taken up here.

In the evening several hundred progressive farmers in the vicinity of Parkley occupied Hopkins Hall, where another series of lectures on scientific agriculture held the attention of those who had come to broaden their knowledge along these lines.
